Fleet Intelligence Center, NAVEUR
US Naval Air Station
Jacksonville, Florida

Dear Charles:

I apologize for not having written sooner but I have been quite busy in the past month since returning from Navy duty at Jacksonville.

I called your brother, John, and relayed your message. He seems to be a very nice person and obviously was very glad to hear about you.

Did you see my note to Col. Stephenson about your replacement, the other Lt. Clark from Washington? He was once stationed with a VP squadron at JAX. and hopes to have an opportunity to get some ADP training prior to reporting to FICEUR.

Please tell Ensign Arant and Lt. Wells that I haven't forgotten my promise to write an article for them. There just hasn't been time. In fact, I just contacted your friend Commander Pulley about the Navy photographs and he was very accommodating.

Would you ask Col. Stephenson to send me the name of the Naval Officer who charged out the map from the Library of Congress. Strangely enough, until the L. of C. can find the correspondence on this matter they will be unable to write it off their files. Any pertinent details would help to shed some light on the original transaction. If necessary, we are still willing to replace the map for the sake of the Navy's reputation.

Please give my regards to all at FICEUR. I hope you still plan to visit Washington in the near future. You have my telephone number and address and we will be pleased to have you call.

Best wishes,

AS/
